

Membership

The Virginia Writers Project values its associates. We recognize diversity and engagement. Members participate in genre related activities as interests allow and agree to assist as they can in the efforts of this approach by supporting each other. We ask members to serve as readers in their genre(s) as their time and interests allow. Serving as a reader and writer and speaker builds community. Costs to support this effort are minimal, and all participants voice their ideas collectively. We are a bottom-up group. Governance is by associate editors, but no one is excluded. As a collective, we welcome insights and help.

Are you interested in occasional virtual meetings? These can be discussions, speakers, seminars, or author centered discussion. You may be asked to lead or present. You will receive updates. Are you willing (able) to subsidize the Virginia Writers Project? Baseline $30 annually, $50 if of value. We keep expenses low. Two items: the web domain <https://virginiawritersproject.com> and complimentary copies for student submissions. Invited, one-time contributors do not need to join. Students are encouraged to offer what they can.
